

10 Reasons International Law Practitioners Use JAMS

- 1 Founded in 1979, JAMS is the world's largest private ADR provider. In 2016, JAMS handled nearly 14,000 cases, including 3,000 arbitrations in jurisdictions around the globe.
- 2 JAMS neutrals have varied backgrounds. Our panel includes more than 350 attorneys, barristers, solicitors and retired federal and state trial and appellate court judges.
- 3 JAMS neutrals are among the world's most experienced, with expertise in a wide range of international practice areas, including commercial, construction, energy, financial markets, IP, maritime and many others.
- 4 JAMS offers a wide range of innovative arbitration rules designed to ensure an efficient process. Based on client needs, JAMS neutrals also regularly hear cases under the rules of arbitral institutions worldwide.
- 5 JAMS is consistently recognized for its case management expertise and exceptional customer service. Our panel includes multi-lingual neutrals, and JAMS employees can assist clients in more than 30 languages.
- 6 JAMS arbitration pricing is simple and straightforward. Costs are based on time spent resolving the case, not on the value of the claim.
- 7 With Resolution Centers throughout North America and the UK and a network of global affiliates, JAMS offers local expertise for international cases in almost any location.
- 8 JAMS believes diverse viewpoints enhance the quality of our services. We recognize the value of recruiting the most qualified ADR experts inclusive of varied ethnicity, race, gender, religion and sexual orientation.
- 9 The non-profit JAMS Foundation, funded entirely by JAMS neutrals and associates, has provided millions of dollars in grant funding for conflict resolution initiatives with national and international impact.
- 10 As part of our ongoing commitment to the communities we serve, JAMS neutrals provide pro bono ADR services and JAMS associates donate their time to support local charitable organizations.
